Six months ago we were asked by one of our business partners if we would help them translate technical texts for their manufacturing program. Because this is an important partner, we agreed, albeit with fear whether we will be able to find a competent and reliable translator, because we did not have the capacity to handle everything in time.

We are not a company that sends inquiries to all existing and non-existing companies and then undergoes a long process to choose the right one. We contact the first company whose website appeals to us in some undefined way, and if the terms offered by the company appear reasonable to us, and the company comes across as reliable, we stop looking.

We have to admit that to this day we have no idea whether the price we paid for the translations is the most expensive or cheapest on the market. And we don't even care after the way the work was done. Although our suppliers and customers are all perfect, and we are used to all kinds of pleasant things, working together with Mrs. Trnková cannot be described. It has to be experienced ☺.

We wish everyone to have partners like this, as it makes life enormously enjoyable.
